Chambers of commerce are omnipresent in domestic public policy and play a crucial role in business self-governance. However, they are rather neglected in both public and scientific debates and seem to be in decline. This volume fills this gap in research on organised business and state-market coordination in Europe. The contributions discuss chambers of commerce as interest groups and actors in political systems, and address the institutional changes that this kind of self-governance is undergoing. The development of chambers of commerce in recent decades shows a wide array of mechanisms for institutional adaptation, ranging from displacement and conversion to enduring stability. This volume gives an insight into the dynamics and factors affecting these changes, with case studies on Austria, France, Germany, Hungary, Spain, and the United Kingdom, all conducted by recognised experts in this field. Excerpt from Fifty-Sixth and Fifty-Seventh Annual Report of the Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco: Submitted to Meetings Held January 16th, 1906 and January 15th, 1907 Gentlemen - The passage of the years brings us often to the position where we are impelled to say, The King is dead; long live the King. The eventful year of 1906, long to be remembered in San Francisco annals and in the pages Of history, is dead. The year 1907 is present with its duties to perform; its projects to be carried into execution; its work of rehabilitation Of our still proud City by the Golden Gate to be vigorously pursued. We Of The Chamber of Commerce Of San Francisco have many excellent reasons for remembering the events Of 1906. The greatest fire in history destroyed business and residential portions of this City and inflicted a loss which is estimated to have been largely in excess Of Deprived suddenly of much that seemed indispensable to the progress of the community, we still retained the facilities by which foreign and inter-state commerce moved. The water front was Open for our use; the transcontinental railways and the ocean with its commercial fleets were remaining agencies by which we were still able to keep commerce in motion. Our people gave proof of their staying qualities. As soon as possible they resolutely set themselves to clearing up the debris and to rebuilding. When we look about us we can say that while in April, 1906, we met with a great disaster, it might have been worse. We shall rebuild the city and increase our commerce, which this Chamber will promote by all means available. Lists addresses and telephone and fax numbers for chambers of commerce, boards of tourism, and economic development organizations This Newcomen Address, Dealing With The Beginnings And Growth And Influence Of The Chamber Of Commerce Of The United States Of America, Was Delivered At The 1949 Washington Dinner Of The Newcomen Society Of England, At Which Mr. Shreve Was The Guest Of Honor, Held In Ballroom Of The Mayflower At Washington, D. C., On March 25, 1949. Change is Accelerating. Managing a chamber of commerce and providing leadership in a community have never been more challenging. Navigating complexity is certainly more than showing up at a picnic and tossing a horseshoe, hoping to get a ringer. It takes intelligence, strategy, and focus to win prosperity. In Horseshoes vs. Chess, veteran chamber executive and former mayor Dave Adkisson shares the insights he gained from more than 40 years observing chambers of commerce - as a CEO of three very different chambers (a small city chamber, a metro chamber, and a state chamber), as a two-term mayor of his hometown, as a former assistant to a U.S. Senator, and as a chamber leader on the national level. Horseshoes vs. Chess offers the lessons Adkisson wishes he had known when he started. He explores four distinct aspects of living in "Chamber World: " Chamber Leaders' Distinct Personalities and Skill Sets Chamber Leaders Building Their Chambers to New Heights Chamber Leaders Helping Shape Their Communities Chamber Leaders Growing Professionally With compelling stories of victories as well as disappointments, Adkisson celebrates the incredible opportunity chamber leaders have to help their chambers and communities navigate modern challenges and gain greater prosperity. 50290 This open access book examines a particular factor in the enduring international success of German companies. Beyond industrial specialization, peaceful labor relations, local financial markets and the "miracle of the Mittelstand", it focuses on a characteristic aspect of governance within the German economy: The Chambers of commerce and industry. Important characteristics of the Chamber system are emphasized - including obligatory membership for firms as well as participatory rules of their self-administration. In turn, the book examines the institution's self-governance, its services, and its mission regarding the general representation of interests. Moreover, the book also identifies the advancement of the dual system of professional education as a central element of the Chamber system. Following an introduction about how the Chamber system works, interviews, case studies and historical explanations help to exemplify the true spirit inherent to this form of representation. In particular, they reveal the essence of how the Chambers contribute to the global success of German companies and foster their corporate responsibility in a practical way. Given its scope, the book will be of particular interest to professionals, policymakers and researchers concerned with how institutional organization can support commerce and industry for the public good. The book was developed in collaboration with Laura Sasse and the Practical Wisdom Society.-- Book lists economic development organizations, convention and visitors bureaus, state boards of tourism, chamber of commerce U.S. and foreign, 105th congress, embassies, etc. Lists addresses and telephone and fax numbers for chambers of commerce, boards of tourism, and economic development organizations In 1911, the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce was formed by the union of the Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco, Merchants' Association of San Francisco, Merchants' Exchange (San Francisco, Calif.), and the Down Town Association.
